Its lifestyle is very different than in the USA, as it combines a social safety net, low cost of living, and green living practices to provide a wonderful, unique place to call home. Traveling here is easy, since the land is mountainous and borders the many beautiful lakes and mountains. As you plan your trip, take note of these facts: Switzerland is an Alpine country, and the terrain is quite varied. Mountainous regions are near the edges of the country, while the valleys, lakes, and plains are in the center. The terrain is more mountainous in the north, while it is flatter in the south. This adds to the regional identity of the country. Switzerland is known for its great outdoors. The country is a land of glaciers, lakes, mountains, and valleys. Mountain hiking, camping, fishing, and other outdoor activities are all popular in Switzerland. Enjoy your visit to Switzerland, whether it is to visit the Alps, watch the cows in the highlands, or to visit the cities along the lakes. Your next vacation to Switzerland is sure to be a great one! I live in Central Europe. We are slowly re-inventing ourselves into "refugee" nation. I hate to think that some of the young people who left us because they were concerned about the precariousness of their situations will return to us as the last bastion of security. There are security concerns for everyone in Europe now. However, I am not gloomy
